

4 Proven Ways to Get Ahold of Any Busy Attorney

Have you ever felt the frustration of NOT being able to get a hold of your attorney? Attorneys are busy people! Period. The rest of the world is too. However, when you NEED to talk legal, right NOW, about some important matter, the challenge is finding them, in their office long enough, in order to connect with them.

For example let's say you are in the midst of a real estate transaction and need to talk to your attorney A.S.A.P., and they seem unreachable, never in the office and not calling you back. How do you make that "love connection" happen sooner than later? Here are 4 proven ways to accomplish just that:

1) Hire a real estate attorney.

One who specializes in real estate. All attorneys can close a real estate transaction, but an attorney who's focus on one specific type of law, can possess more specialized knowledge and experience. But there's another little known reason. Real Estate attorneys are more accessible during the day. Why? Because real estate attorneys are NOT in court all day. General practice attorneys are busy representing clients in court from parking tickets to defending criminals. A real estate attorney, unless they are attending a closing or doing an eviction, real estate attorneys work from their office and are there more frequently than types of attorneys.

2) Call after 3pm!

When court adjourns, attorneys return to the office. So, based upon court schedules, the most likely time to catch a court attending type attorney in their office is after 3p.m.

3) Get their cell number - if you can

This allows you to reach them even if they are at court, a normally inaccessible location.

4) Set up a phone appointment.

Set up a phone appointment. Speak to your attorney's paralegal or secretary and give them 3 dates and times you are available. Confirm the date and time. This way your attorney can be scheduled and aware there is an appointment ahead of time and you are not fretting and wasting more time trying to reach them.

Bonus: Get chummy with the secretary. It never hurts to build good relationships, especially if you plan on using their services again soon.
